Preface

The present issue of the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections, the 12th in the series, reports 2,133 collections held by 163 repositories, 39 of which are represented for the first time. Since its beginnings this catalog has published descriptions of approximately 33,400 collections located in 921 different repositories and has indexed them by almost 326,800 references to topical subjects and personal, family, corporate, and geographical names. The index is again a cumulative one, covering entries appearing in the period 1970-74.

The response of repositories to requests for descriptions of their collections has been gratifying. Continuing reporting by these cooperating institutions and expansion to secure the participation of others are essential for the success of the ongoing program.

The Catalog

Foreword

The holdings of manuscripts in the United States are so extensive that only by describing them in groups, rather than singly, can the program of the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections (NUCMC) hope to cover them. As the intent of the catalog is to bring scholars and manuscripts together, the collections described are those located in public or quasi-public repositories which regularly admit researchers.

Scope

There are no limitations on the time, place or origin, or nature of the collections recorded. Users of the catalog, however, will note that each entry describes a "collection," that is, a sizable group of manuscripts consisting of letters, memoranda, accounts, and the like, either in original handwritten or typewritten form or in the form of photocopies, typescripts, or facsimilies of originals. Other collections are made up of transcripts of oral recordings. Functional archival records located in a repository other than the originating archive are included, but such records remaining with the creating body, e.g., county records in a county courthouse, are not yet recorded here. Detailed definitions and instructions for submitting appropriate reports are available from the editor.

Publishing pattern

The issues in the NUCMC series are identified by the years in which the descriptions were cataloged. The first volume, publishing the cataloging done from 1959 through 1961, was issued in 1962. As work progressed on the 1962 catalog it was decided to combine the name and subject of the earlier publication and to issue separately a combined index for both catalogs. It was further decided that in the future a catalog consisting of descriptions of about 2,000 collections should be published each year, if possible, with indexes cumulating in each issue. The increasing size of the index, however, forced the termination of its cumulation and the beginning of a new cumulating index. The second cumulated index covers the years 1963-66, the third, 1967-69, and the fourth, 1970-74. A list of all the volumes published in this series and their publishers is included in the announcement of Library of Congress publications at the end of this volume.

History

Scholars, particularly in the field of American history, were instrumental in urging the establishment of a center for locating, recording, and publicizing the holdings of manuscript collections available for research. They had long been frustrated by the diffculties of locating specific manuscripts and even of identifying repositories possibly containing primary-source materials.

In 1951 the Library of Congress began to prepare actively for a National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections to parallel its catalogs of printed works, but it was not until 1958 that the Library could begin to realize its plans. On November 29 of that year the Council on Library Resources, Inc., made a grant of $200,000 to underwrite the primary costs of the project. It later made supplemental grants amounting to $170,565 to continue the work to July 1964, when Congress appropriated funds to carry the program as part of the Library's work.

In 1959 the Manuscripts Section was established in the Descriptive Cataloging Division with responsibility for creating and conducting the program of NUCMC. An advisory committee of nationally prominent scholars representing learned societies and other groups concerned with the preservation and control of manuscripts was appointed and continues to assist informally in the formulation of broad policies. An intramural committee on manuscript cataloging was reassembled and is called upon as occasion demands to guide the practical application of policies. Reports were soon being gathered from repositories all over the country. The first card in the new manuscript series was printed in June 1959, visible evidence that the project was underway.

Early in the operation of the program it was recognized that maintenance of a card file in the Library of Congress would not adequately meet the needs of scholars. The plan was enlarged to encompass the publication of the catalog using the printed cards as the text of the entries, which were arranged in card-number sequence and indexed.

Subject control

The contents of collections as described in the catalog can be ascertained only through the general index, where citation is made to all names, places, subjects, and named historic periods. Additional information about the index can be found in the introduction to the companion index volume for this catalog.

Arrangement

The descriptions of collections are arranged numerically by the year digits and sequential numbers assigned for the reproduction of the entry in card form. For example, the identification numbers may run 73-657, 73-658, 74-1, 74-2, and so on. Cards (for working copies and not for sale) are printed throughout the year to spread the workload, and in the first few years the numbers had no relation to the text. Beginning with the 1963 entries, however, it has been possible to send fairly large groups of entries to the printer arranged alphabetically by repository, subarranged by main entry for the collection, and numbered in that order. This procedure permits a degree of recognizable arrangement, which the reader can use advantageously through the Guide to Entries by Repository found in the front of the 1963-64 and later volumes. An additional check of collections reported by a repository is found in the repository indexes that follow the general index.

Sources of information

The information about the collections comes from various sources: data sheets especially prepared by the repositories, copies of their catalog cards, and entries in published guides to their holdings. Since the time available for cataloging manuscripts varies from institution to institution, the descriptions differ with respect to completeness and detail. Moreover, the total holdings of large repositories may not always be reported completely, and the collections of some are not represented at all. These variations are inevitable in a project that depends on the cooperation of many people and organizations, all with limitations on their resources, to obtain the necessary data.

Changes or corrections

Repositories are sent proof copy in ample time for study before publication in book form, and the editors are normally notified immediately of any changes or corrections. Corrections or adjustments of errors obviously cannot be made to published entries but they can sometimes be introduced in the next cumulated index. For example, misspelling of a name, attribution to the wrong person, or improper location of an event can be corrected in the index. When a collection has been removed from the reporting repository or when for some other reason an entry is considered completely misleading, all references to it are omitted from the cumulated index.

Names of repositories are sometimes altered between one volume and the next. The latest form of the name is used and the state list found in the front of each catalog notes the earlier name. Collections moved from one repository to another are treated as new collections and cataloged from information supplied by the new owner.

Inquiries

Questions concerning the manuscript collections described in this series of catalogs should be addressed to the repositories holding them. Suggestions for the improvement of the catalogs and inquiries concerning participation in the cataloging program should be addressed to Manuscripts Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20540. Correspondence regarding subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Cataloging Distribution Service Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20541.

Elements of the Entries

The catalog entries have been prepared according to the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules (American Library Association, 1967). Differences in the form of headings for corporate bodies whose names are otherwise similar may be explained by the fact that some of them were previously established under earlier rules and retained under the Library of Congress policy known as "superimposition." Some other variations in the form of entry are used to maintain clarity and uniformity in this series. For example, maiden names continue to be indicated within parentheses; bishops and Presidents of nations are identified as such; information such as occupation, place of residence, or dates of the papers is used to identify persons with identical names when birth or death dates are unavailable; and firm names beginning with forenames or initials are given with the surname first followed by the forename or initials in parentheses, and the location of the firm is added unless it obviously operates in more than one place. As the rules for manuscript collections are based on standard rules for author and title entry and description and are designed for inclusion in a library card catalog, the entries resemble those for published materials.

Main entry

The first element of the entry is the main entry. The basic rule of entry is to use the name of a person, family, or corporate body around which a collection is formed; lacking this, the description of a collection may be entered under the name of a personal collector if his name appears in the name of the collection; or, if neither of these choices is applicable, the collection is entered under title.

Title

The title is the name by which the collection is known or a brief descriptive name supplied by the cataloger. Inclusive dates of the manuscripts follow the title.

Physical description

The physical description of a collection is given, preferably, in terms of linear feet (measured as if standing upright on shelves), number of items—each item a single unit, whether a 1-page note, a 10-page letter, or a 500-page or multivolume diary—or number of reels of microfilm.

Location

The location of a collection gives the name of the repository where the collection is housed. This element of the entry follows the physical description. Next, notation is made of the form of the manuscripts if they are not original and of the location of the originals.

Scope and content

A description of the types and groups of papers and documents in the collection, including their subject matter, the name of the principal persons and corporate bodies with whom they deal, and other special features of the collection, makes up the scope and content component of the entry. For personal papers the paragraph also includes identifying biographical data.

Other information

Other information is provided when available. References to published and unpublished descriptions of the collection are given where these supplement the NUCMC description. Information about restrictions on access, literary rights, and provenance is included here.

Identification number The identification number is the number assigned to entries. It consists of the symbol MS, the last two digits of the year in which the entry is published, and a serial number.

The Indexes

Introduction

This cumulative index for the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections covers catalog entries appearing in the issues for 1970 through 1974. Previous terminating cumulations of the index appeared as a separate companion volume to the 1962 catalog and bound with the catalogs for 1966 and 1969.

GENERAL INDEX

The general index provides in one alphabet references to the names, places, subjects, and named historical periods reported in the catalog entries. Citations lead to the identification numbers that appear with each entry. Numbers are underscored when they represent main entries under which the descriptions appear or the names or subjects about which major portions of collections are formed. The index provides numerous cross references, including some which refer to index headings used in earlier volumes but for which there happens to be no material in this catalog.

Names

The index includes names of all persons, families, and corporate entities, i. e., associations, institutions, business firms, governmental agencies, etc., associated with the various manuscripts. The nature of their association varies from case to case. Some are authors, some subjects, and some addressees; others are involved more tangentially. Inspection of the entry for the appropriate collection will generally clarify the relationship.

Family names are indexed by surname followed by the word "family." The names of corporate bodies are entered in as many forms as may be useful, e. g., name, keyword, and location.

Persons

Similar personal names have been studied and the individuals identified as far as possible by the use of vital dates, place of residence, or occupation; unresolved conflicts of identity resulting from similar names are indicated by asterisks before the names or the citation numbers. For example, *Holmes, Nathaniel (63–378) could not be identified with the Nathaniel Holmes, 1815–1901, listed in the Dictionary of American Biography or the Nathaniel Holmes listed in the first volume of this catalog (60–1750). Since little is known about the persons designated by asterisks, it is possible that two or more citations following such names may refer to more than one person. An asterisk preceding a particular citation number means that it may not belong to the person under whose name it is listed; for example, the number *71–965 after Holmes, Oliver Wendell 1841–1935, may properly refer to Oliver Wendell Holmes, 1809–1894. Users of this index will often have the special knowledge required to resolve such uncertainties.

References are made from maiden names to married names, and from pseudonyms and variant names to the names chosen as index entries.

Descriptions that refer only to material about the estate of a deceased person are indicated under the person's name by the phrase Estate of; however, if the collection also contains other material, the estate is not singled out. The same system applies to the indexing of genealogical material under the name of a family, but genealogists can discover all genealogical material listed by family name under the direct entry GENEALOGY.

Places Historical research in this country is so frequently concerned with study of the places where persons lived or where events occurred that geographic indexing of manuscript materials is imperative. From the beginning an index entry has been made for each place name (city, village, or county) and another for the state in which it is located. Entries under local places are modified by the subjects or topics with which the respective manuscript collections or parts of them appear to deal. Many descriptions do not report specific subjects pertaining to places, and in such instances place names have been subdivided by such general phrases as Family and personal papers, Letters from, Letters received in, or Resident of.

Every collection with material relating to a state or region has been indexed under the name of that political jurisdiction or area, whether or not it has also been indexed under a local place name. The names of these larger jurisdictions and areas have been subdivided by subject and topical terms which are often, though not necessarily, the same as those chosen for direct subject entries, and by such subjects as Economic conditions, History, Politics, Social life, and Travel and description, and such forms as Accounts and Legal documents, which, by their nature, are not appropriate as direct entries.

A citation under a local name is ordinarily repeated as a citation under the larger jurisdiction, both divided by the same subject or topical term. In the case of the cities of Boston, New York, and Philadelphia, however, citations are made only under the city name. There will, of course, be a citation under topic divided by place, as explained in the next section. Thus, citations under PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Schools are not repeated under PENNSYLVANIA—Schools but will appear under SCHOOLS—Pennsylvania. Under PENNSYLVANIA—Schools will be found references to schools in all places in that state except Philadelphia.

Subjects Subject and topical index entries have been chosen to describe as accurately as possible the contents of the various collections. Words and phrases that have several meanings have been explained briefly; note, for example, the explanations under ESTATE MANAGEMENT and ESTATES or FISH TRADE and FISHERIES. "See" and "see also" references are freely provided to lead the user to related entries.

Subjects are usually subdivided by names of countries, states, or regions and are repeated as subheadings under the names of these countries, states, and regions. In many instances this pattern forms a double or reverse likeness, but, whenever it has been possible to present an extra dimension in an entry or in the subdivisions by changing wording, by using chronology, or by other appropriate devices, the reverse image has been broken. For example, the index entry MERCHANTS is divided chronologically and geographically, but as a subdivision under a place it is unmodified.

Such subject phrases as RURAL SOCIOLOGY have often been entered in both direct and inverted form, i.e., RURAL SOCIOLOGY and SOCIOLOGY, RURAL. If, however, there are many citations or subdivisions, one element is selected for the index entry and a "see" cross reference is made from the other. "See" references are made also from some synonyms, although on occasion citations may appear under both terms.

Occupations and career activities are indexed if they appear to be the subjects of the writings. In the catalog entries the relationship between the note about the author and the description of the content of the collection is frequently so obscure that much valuable material may have been omitted from the index because the indexers could not assume that the material bears on the profession or occupation of the author.

Specificity

The words used are often those current in the period covered by the manuscripts, with citations appropriate to each and cross references between them. Both LAND—Companies and REAL ESTATE BUSINESS appear, for example, as do both PERSIA and IRAN.

Since most of the manuscripts reported in the catalog relate to the United States, the index entries generally begin with the significant subject word rather than a country identification (e.g., REVOLUTION, rather than AMERICAN REVOLUTION or UNITED STATES—Revolution). Names of other countries, however, are specified as required. Because of their applicability to almost every manuscript collection, the general topics History, Politics, Economic conditions, and Social life are never used as main entries or even as subdivisions under UNITED STATES. They are used under local place and state. The heading UNITED STATES is used only for official agencies of the federal government and for specific topics as they apply to the country as a whole.

The forms of manuscripts are rarely used as index entries, although they are frequently given as amplification of subjects, names, or places, e.g., SHIPS —Logbooks, BOTANY—Lectures, LINCOLN, ABRAHAM—Newspaper clippings, MIDDLESEX CO., VA.—County records.

Chronology has been used to break up long lists of citations under some index entries. Of necessity, the time periods indicated are usually the inclusive dates of the collection and serve only as a general guide.

The catalog and its index are an aid to research, not a ready reference guide. Accordingly, investigators should search for both specific and general terms because both are used in the descriptions and general terms are presumptive clues to specific material.

Filing Arrangement

When the same name appears in the index as a personal name and as a place, family, or other name, the personal name precedes all of the others. Personal names are grouped together, followed by all other main index entries arranged alphabetically word by word without regard for punctuation. "Mc" is filed as if spelled "Mac," and abbreviations are filed as if spelled in full, e.g., "Co." as County, "St." as Saint, "Ste." as Sainte, "Mo." as Missouri. Subdivisions of a given entry are alphabeted in two groups: 1) subject terms and 2) states and countries. On occasion other subgroups that will be obvious to the user have been made.

A few topics have been given special treatment because of the extent of the entries under them, e.g., CIVIL WAR, GENEALOGY, NEW YORK, and UNITED STATES. These have been distinguished by main headings in large type, with subdivisions capitalized as if they were main entries.

REPOSITORY INDEX

The main repository index is an alphabetical list of the manuscript repositories with holdings in the catalogs for 1970 through 1974. Cumulated repository indexes are included in the previous NUCMC cumulations, i.e., 1962, 1966, and 1969. The index presents the main entry in alphabetical order under its repository and gives title, size, and the identifying number of the entry.

DUPLICATES INDEX

Following the main repository index is an index to holders of duplicates reported by other repositories. This index lists the names of repositories that hold reproductions of all or part of original manuscripts held in and reported by the repository holding the collection of originals. The identifying number of the catalog entry is cited for the full description. This index was begun in the 1963–64 issue and cumulated in 1966, 1969, and 1973–74.

ORIGINALS OF REPRODUCTIONS INDEX

Another special index of holders of original reproductions lists by country, including the United States, the name of the repository holding the original manuscripts which have been listed in this catalog as photoreproductions. Reference is made to the entry number. Reproductions qualify for inclusion in the catalog when they are created from original manuscripts scattered in several repositories or from several collections in a repository, or when the repositories holding the originals either do not regularly admit researchers or are not located in the United States. This index was also begun in the 1963–64 issue and appears in all the later cumulations.

TRANSCRIPTS AND RECORDINGS INDEX

The special repository index locates oral history interview transcripts and collections containing sound recordings. This index was begun in 1970, when collections of transcripts of oral history interviews were accepted for inclusion in the catalog. It has always been permissible for a qualifying manuscript collection to contain sound recordings as peripheral material. This index lists the name of the repository and the identifying number of a collection consisting of or containing transcripts or sound recordings and cumulates the entries for 1970–74.

Citations are to entries in this and the 1970, 1971, and 1972 catalogs. Numerous cross references are provided to guide the user to the material of his interest. To further this objective some references are made to index headings found in earlier volumes although there is no material on the subject in these four catalogs.
